The Charter Schools Movement

Charter Schools stand at the center of our nation's growing effort to reform and improve public schools and provide wider options to every family. Like the traditional neighborhood school, charters are public and are open to all students regardless of wealth, gender, race, or religion. Unlike traditional public schools, charters can waive many burdensome rules and regulations, so teachers, principals, parents, and students can focus on learning. In exchange for this freedom, charters sign a contract, promising to achieve specific academic goals for their students. Most importantly, charters are held accountable for their results. Approximately 3 million students now attend over 6,700 charter schools in 42 states and the District of Columbia.

About Georgia Charter Schools Association

The Georgia Charter Schools Association (GCSA) is the non-profit, 501(c)(3) corporation and the membership organization for Georgia's charter school operators and petitioners, established in 2001. The mission of GCSA is to be an effective advocate and service provider for all charter public schools in Georgia.

This involves:

- Advancing awareness of charter schools and their mission
- Increasing awareness that charter schools are public schools
- Communicating charter school needs to state and local officials
- Supporting legislation to strengthen charter schools in Georgia
- Facilitating opportunities for networking and collaboration among charter schools in Georgia and across the nation
- Developing and implementing programs and services that advance student achievement, accountability and success in all of Georgia public charter schools
- Training charter school governing boards to best practices to meet DOE and state compliance standards
